GOVERNOR

August 24, 2015

Greetings,

I would like to recognize the critical work of Maine's direct support professionals. They provide support and services to children and adults with developmental and other intellectual disabilities.

Direct support professionals support individuals with disabilities in making choices that lead to meaningful and productive lives. They are essential in supporting individuals with disabilities live successfully in their respective communities. Because of this important work, costly institutional care can be avoided.

On behalf of the citizens of Maine, I appreciate the work of all the direct support professionals in Maine and wish them continued success with their profession.

Sincerely,

Paul R. LePage
Governor
